Ashley, a watchman at the local plant, and Lewis of the shipping department were given badges bearing six diamonds—one for every five years' continuous employment.

Life Serenely Pleasant On Town's Easy Street

PITTSFIELD, Me. (U.P.)—Life on "Easy" street is very pleasant. The 25-year-old street was cut and named by Col. Walter G. Morrill, as an advertisement for the town.

The five houses on Easy street are occupied by an undertaker, railroad station agent, insurance agent, bank receiver and a school teacher.

It's a quiet little street with maples bordering the walks, flowers in front of the houses, and there's never anything unpleasant or exciting to disturb the serenity.

Miami Expects Divorce to Be Rich Business

MIAMI, Fla. (U.P.)—This resort city, where tropic flowers and warm moonlit nights lend impetus to innumerable romances, does an annual divorce business of $2,500,000.

Basing their estimates on divorces granted since Florida's 90-day residence law was enacted in 1925, observers say that 2,500 divorces will be granted here in 1939.

They estimate that the average cost for a divorce is $1,000, including attorney's fees, court costs and expense of living here for the 90-day period.

"Meanest Man" Throws Acid in Minnow Bowl

MODESTO, (U.P.)—Everett Fisher of Hughson, who gains a livelihood by raising minnows for bait, has nominated a candidate for the "meanest man" title.

Someone, according to a complaint Fisher made to the sheriff's office, threw acid into his fish pond, killing his entire stock of minnows.

PERILED BY JAPS . . . Reports of Japanese activity deep in South China, including an aerial attack on Mengtze, aroused fears in the rich bordering territory of French Indo-China. Shown here is the river harbor of Haiphong, modern commercial capital of Tonkin, northernmost and most populous ($500,000) of five countries of the Indo-China Union under French protection. Haiphong is the railhead and port for the huge output of tin, tungsten and other minerals mined near the China border which Japan needs to continue her "sacred war."

Boneless Fish Caught; Scientists Are Amazed

EAST LONDON, South Africa (U.P.)—A fish caught 40 fathoms beneath the sea here should have been dead 50,000,000 years ago.

It belonged to the species Crossoterygii, which scientists had believed extinct.

Of a brilliant steel blue color, the fish was 5 feet long and weighed 127 pounds. It had no bones, but a cartilage—a hard but pliant substance—and its fins and scales were of the primitive type.

Apparently its ancestors were common 100,000,000 years ago—the golden age for the Crossoterygii. But what one of the species is doing alive today is a riddle for the scientists to solve.
